

TRAIN HITS VANS; 3 SERIOUSLY HURT

Motor Cars Smash Into Furniture-Loading Vehicles, Drivers of Which May Be Fatally Injured.

Blowing along at a high rate of speed this morning a train of heavy motor cars of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit ran down two furniture vans at Jamaica and Van Wyck avenues, Queens Borough. Three horses were killed and three men injured. Two of them were so out that the surgeons of the Jamaica Hospital believe their injuries are mortal.

The train was one that left the Broadway ferries before daylight running on the elevated structure until Queens County was reached and then going upon the trolley tracks.

At Van Wyck avenue the furniture vans, belonging to Charles Tye, of Hempstead, and laden with household goods, were on the eastbound track in front of the train. Whether in the darkness the motorman saw the vans too late or whether they failed to obey his signal or the air-brakes refused to work has not been determined, but before the vans could turn out there was a rumble behind them and the last van, upon the seat of which were two men, Peter Brookman and Daniel Morgan, was struck.

The van was sent ahead into the one before it. The horses were jammed between the two vans and the men on the seats were thrown thirty feet.

On the van in front was Philip Saunders. The impact of the van in the back being driven through his arm threw him to one side and wrecked his van.

As soon he struck the van Engineer Remsen, in charge of the motor, sounded his whistle as an alarm, arousing the neighborhood and attracting the attention of the police of the Jamaica station, from which the reserves were turned out.

In a few minutes a half dozen residents of the neighborhood, with the passengers on the train, went to the aid of the men. An ambulance was called from Jamaica Hospital.

It was found that Brookman and Morgan, in addition to scalp wounds and fractured ribs, had internal injuries, while Sanders was badly out about the head and face and had received internal injuries. The men were all removed to the hospital.

It was at this point a few years ago that a fatal accident occurred. A passenger train, in addition to scalp wounds and fractured ribs, had internal injuries, while Sanders was badly out about the head and face and had received internal injuries. The men were all removed to the hospital.

SCHOENBROD, Sept. 12.—James M. Shanley, of Rome, N. Y., a delegate to the State Federation of Labor convention, in session here, was killed to-day by a passenger train on the New York Central.

STOLE TO FEED HIS STARVING FAMILY

Striking Teamster Told Magistrate Zeller Union Would Not Permit Him to Work Despite His Distress.

With tears rolling down his cheeks Thomas Gowan, thirty-five years old, of No. 24 East One Hundred and Seventeenth street, appeared as a prisoner in Harlem Court to-day and told Magistrate Zeller that he had stolen door knobs to get food for his wife and children.

The complainant was Bella Conway, of No. 24 East One Hundred and Fourteenth street. Gowan was arrested at 2 o'clock this morning in One Hundred and Fourteenth street by Patrolman McCarthy, of the East One Hundred and Fourth street station.

Gowan said he was a driver formerly employed by Curtis & Blaisdell, furniture dealers, but with the other drivers employed by the firm struck on Labor Day because the firm ordered them to work.

"I can't get any work now," he told the Court, "and the union has ordered me to stay out. When I went home last night I found my children crying for food and my wife so weak she could hardly walk. In order to save them from starving I went out and stole the door knobs, hoping to sell them."

Magistrate Zeller called the attention of the complainant to Gowan's story and she said if it were true she would not press the complaint. The Court adjourned the hearing and ordered Patrolman O'Connell to investigate Gowan's story.

DEATH SAVES MAN FROM ALMSHOUSE

Aged Charles Unger, III and Starving, Allowed to Die in Little Hut He Had Called His Home.

Death saved Charles Unger to-day from spending the remainder of his days in the county poorhouse. He had lived for four-score years, most of it in poverty, which his wife, Sophie, eight years his junior, shared with him.

They lived in a miserable little hut in Pleasant Valley, Concord, Staten Island. Both were too old to work and the subsisted meagerly through the charity of the good people of the neighborhood. Two months ago, protracted starvation robbed Mrs. Unger of her mind, and her old husband had to make the daily begging expedition alone. Their existence became pitiful, but they dreaded the poorhouse and would not appeal for aid to the authorities.

During the rains of the past week the old man contracted a severe cold and had to take to his bed. There was no one to beg then, and when the neighbors missed him they investigated and found the aged couple almost dead from starvation.

Charity Superintendent Pierce was notified and he went to the house with an ambulance yesterday to take them to the poorhouse, but Mrs. Unger had called in a doctor, who said that the trip would end the old man's life, and that he might as well be allowed to die in his home. He had only a few hours to live, anyhow.

To-day the old man died. His body will go to Potter's Field and his wife will be removed to the almshouse.

SUFFERED TORTURES!

Boston Woman Describes Her Own Experience.

Chance Word Overheard Brings Much-Needed Relief.

"It's wonderful how women are able to endure such pain and suffering as would make a man groan!" exclaimed a well-known medical practitioner. The question is, Why should women suffer from female weakness and diseases when Dr. Greene's Nervura, the great all-the-year-round tonic, will at once relieve them? Read the following statement from Mrs. Anna V. Clarke, 39 Sharon St., Boston. Mrs. Clarke's experience is not unusual. Thousands of women have been cured by Dr. Greene's Nervura. Mrs. Clarke says:

"It is with great pleasure that I enclose my photograph, giving you full permission to use my name in any newspaper or pamphlet, and to publish my story, as it is a story of female weakness. I suffered great torture and tried all kinds of medicine and several doctors, but with little relief. I was attending to my household duties when I was told that Dr. Greene's Nervura was the best remedy for my trouble. On the next day I bought a bottle and began to use it. I felt much better. I continued taking the second bottle and kept on taking it until I had taken six bottles, after which I was completely cured. At the present time I am a well woman and am not without Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy in the house."

Dr. Greene is a specialist in female diseases. He has had a lifetime of successful experience. Write to him at 101 Fifth Ave., New York City, for free advice. He will tell you how to get well.
